ABSTRACT

This supplement to "A Bibliography of Generative-Based Grammatical Analyses of Spanish" includes all available materials that have appeared since November 1973, and pre-1973 entries not contained in the original bibliography, particularly items published outside the U.S. The present bibliography, like the original, contains two general divisions: phonology and syntax and semantics. Information regarding the location of reviews and abstracts is included in most of the 100 citations. (KM)

A Supplement to
A Bibliography of Generative-Based
Grammatical Analyses of Spanish

The purpose of the present supplement to my original "Bibliography of Generative-Based Grammatical Analyses of Spanish" (Lenguaje y Ciencias, 14:2 (1974), 105-125) is twofold. First, it includes all available[1] materials that have appeared since November, 1973. Second, it includes pre-1973 entries not contained in the original bibliography--especially items published outside the United States[2].

The organization of this bibliography[3] is the same as the previous one. It contains two general divisions: Phonology and Syntax and Semantics. The entries are alphabetical by author. In the case of multiple entries for one author, the entries are chronological and the titles are alphabetized by year. Reviews, abstracts and related information are contained within brackets and follow the appropriate entry. Abbreviations follow those published by the Modern Language Association Linguistic Bibliography where available.

The following statistics are of interest. Exclusive of reviews and abstracts, phonological entries in both bibliographies total 86. Syntactico-semantic studies currently outnumber phonological entries by nearly a 2 to 1 ration with 168 entries. Within the latter category, theoretical studies on clitics predominate--in particular those that deal with se.

Notes

[1] Noticeably missing are the Preceedings from the Linguistics Studies in the Romance Languages (held at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 1972) which are scheduled to be published by Mouton Press (the Hague) and the Preceedings from LSRL-IV (held at the University of Texas at Austin in 1974) scheduled to be published by Georgetown University Press (Washington, D.C.)

[2] Special thanks are due to Ignacio Bosque (University of California at Berkeley), Mark Goldin (Indiana University) Matthias Perl (Karl-Marx-University at Leipzig) and Hensley C. Woodbridge (Southern Illinois University at Carbondale) for their help in bringing foreign entries to my attention.

[3] This study was partially funded by an Indiana State University Research Grant.
